

SENATE—Thursday, July 22, 1999

The Senate met at 9:30 a.m. and was called to order by the Honorable MICHAEL D. CRAPO, a Senator from the State of Idaho.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Lloyd John Ogilvie, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, thank You for this moment of quiet in which we can reaffirm who we are, whose we are, and why we are here. Once again, we commit ourselves to You as the sovereign Lord of our lives and of our Nation. Our ultimate goal is to please and serve You. You have called us to be servant leaders who glorify You in seeking to know and do Your will in the unfolding vision for America.

We spread out before You the specific decisions that must be made today. We claim Your presence all through the day. Guide the Senators' thinking and their speaking. May their convictions be based on undeniable truth which has been refined by You. Bless them as they work together to find the best solutions for the problems before our Nation. Help them to draw on the supernatural resources of Your Spirit. Give them divine wisdom, penetrating discernment, and indomitable courage.

When the day draws to a close, may our deepest joy be that we received Your best for us and worked together for what is best for our Nation. In the name of our Lord and Savior. Amen.

There will now be a period for the transaction of morning business not to extend beyond the hour of 10:30 a.m. with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 5 minutes each. Under the previous order, the Senator from Georgia, Mr. COVERDELL, is recognized for up to 10 minutes.

The Senator from Georgia.

Mr. COVERDELL. Mr. President, you have already enumerated we have now entered into a period of morning business for up to an hour. I believe I have been recognized for up to 10 minutes.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. That is correct.

F-22 FUNDING

Mr. COVERDELL. Mr. President, the F-22 has become a matter of great interest and controversy over the last several days because the House Appropriations Defense Subcommittee voted to bring a pause to the program; it took $1.8 billion out of it and redistributed it to other priorities. The problem is, if I might just take a moment to characterize it, nobody had any knowledge of the potential of this act—not the Defense Department, not the Air Force, not the contractors, not any parties who have been involved in development of the aircraft.

To step back for a moment, the decision as to this highly advanced weapons system and the decision to commit the Nation to its development is well over a decade old. The actual development of the aircraft began in 1991. We have now as a nation invested $20 billion in the development of this system; two of these unbelievable instruments of warfare are being tested in the air, and there is movement now to production of the first fighters.

My point is that after responsible commitments are made through three administrations and we have invested everything in its preparation and now we are ready to harvest that decision, the only words that come to mind are, it is bizarre that out of the blue, with no hearings, no reflection, this decision just drops like a lead brick into the middle of all these circumstances.

I am going to read the letter written by Secretary Cohen on July 15 to Congressman BILL YOUNG, chairman of the Appropriations Committee. I think it begins to encapsulate the shock of what has happened. He says:

I was dismayed to learn about House Appropriations Defense Subcommittee's mark last Monday that cut $1.8 billion in procurement funding for the F-22 aircraft. The Department of Defense cannot accept this decision. This decision, if enacted, would for all practical purposes kill the F-22 program, the cornerstone of our nation's global air power in the 21st century.

For fifty years, every American soldier has gone to war confident that the United States had air superiority. Canceling the F-22 means we cannot guarantee air superiority in future conflicts. It would also have a significant impact on the viability of the Joint Strike Fighter Program. The F-22 will enable the Joint Strike Fighter to carry out its primary strike mission. The Joint Strike Fighter was not designed for the air superiority mission, and redesigning it to do so will dramatically increase the cost. An upgraded F-15 will not provide this dominance and will cost essentially the same as the F-22 program.

It goes on to say:

I know the difficult budget environment the Congress has to deal with these days. I support your efforts to give our nation the best possible defense at an affordable cost. However, I believe the nation's defense requires the F-22. The proposed cut jeopardizes our future warfighting capability and will place our forces at higher risk.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the letter from Secretary Cohen be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:
